Summary: Tucked away against the mountains near Tucson is a boarding school for privileged youngsters. It would seem to be a youth paradise: a horse for each student, elevated academic standards, high rate of individual attention. Except that Mr. Holroyd, the headmaster, seems a little bit odd, and imposes his will more and more upon his favorite student. But Jeff has mind of his own. He insists on blazing his individual path to self-knowledge and personal fulfillment. A dramatic tale of friendship and enmity, camaraderie and conflict, which ends with the blood of two humans, friend and foe, drying on our hero's Levis.
